How can you get involved in the Denver Design Incubator?

The Denver Design Incubator (DDI) is a non-profit organization dedicated to providing resources, education and professional development to the local fashion community that will enhance and support a thriving, profitable and sustainable fashion industry in Colorado.

DDI is a space for people to build their skills from concept to production as they develop commercial apparel or accessory lines. Our goal is to foster marketable, profitable and sustainable fashion companies right here in Colorado. The best part of DDI is our collaborative community - this is a space where we share knowledge, lend a hand and give feedback. Some are just starting out; others are established movers-and-shakers - and that's what makes our community unique.

Industry Partner	Become an Industry Partner and support DDI through cash or in-kind support. You can also offer discounts on your services or products to DDI members. DDI accepts in-kind donations of fabric, thread, dress forms and other equipment needed to prototype.
Education Partner	Have lots of industry experience and knowledge and want to give back? Become an Education Partner to provide mentoring and advising to DDI members one on one. You can also teach workshops in your areas of expertise at DDI to the community.
Sourcing Partner	Become a Sourcing Partner and contribute DDI's Sourcing Library. Hold a sourcing show open to the entire design community at DDI's facility.
Financial Partner	DDI is a non-profit organization. We accept and appreciate tax deductible cash donations as well as in-kind donations to continue to improve our services and support to the local sewn products industry.
Volunteer	DDI is actively seeking volunteers. What is your area of expertise? What is your passion? Become part of our organization through volunteering and help build our fashion community in Colorado.
Membership	Become a member of DDI. You can join our shared maker space to perfect your prototypes or do your small run production. Flexible membership options available.
